Shop kids who carry knives

By DAVID WATKINSON

People in Lancashire are being urged to help police in the fight against knife crime.

Crimestoppers wants anyone who works with young people in the community to pass on information if they find out about them carrying knives.

The call comes after the charity ran a texting service last year as part of the government's Tackling Knives Action Programme (TKAP) so pupils could report peers carrying blades.

The charity has now decided to extend the appeal to take in people who have regular contact with young people.

Kay Armstrong, Crimestoppers co-ordinator for Lancashire Police, said: "By passing on information about those carrying a knife, you could be helping to prevent a devastating crime and saving a life.

"We know that some young people carry a knife because they feel it is a form of protection, but in many cases it's used against them.

"Help protect the young people in our community – tell us what you know, not who you are."

Police bid to get blades off streets

Home Secretary Jacqui Smith said: "We are determined to do everything we can to get weapons off our streets and everyone, including the public, has a role to play.

"Our message is clear. If you know someone who is carrying a knife, you have a responsibility to pass on the information."

People can pass on information by calling 0800 555 111, or via the online 'giving information' form on www.crimestoppers-uk.org

Anyone who uses the Crimestoppers service remains anonymous at all times. Calls are not traced or recorded and no personal details are taken.

Growing: Twins plant peas in a pod

Six-year-old twins Harry and Peter Sutton, watched by their mum Josie Sutton and grandma Aileen Richards, planted peas at St Mary's RC Primary School, Mayfield Avenue, Oswaldtwistle, as part of hands-on lessons about food and farming. Pupils received £150 from last year's Year of Food and Farming to buy seeds and tools to grow their own fruit and vegetables.

New drummer on Ewood beat

By CATHERINE PYE

Blackburn Rovers fans will be moving to a fresh beat now a new official drummer has been found.

Scott Cooper, 20, of Lammack, Blackburn, replaces Bill Toland, of Huncoat, who entertained crowds for more than 10 years home and away.

Bill gave up at the beginning of the season after developing arthritis in his fingers, hand and shoulder.

Since then many fans believe the atmosphere at Ewood Park has dipped.

Scott, who first saw Rovers against QPR with his dad aged two, said: "I started drumming at the match we won 4-3 against Manchester United in 2006.

"When they scored their last goal the drummer threw down his stick. I picked it up and carried on.

"I've known the old drummer, Billy, for a while, so when he gave up because of problems with his hands, I suggested to the club that I would carry on.

"Rovers is one of the most important things in my life and I want to get the atmosphere going.

"We need it more now than ever."

Scott, who sits on the Blackburn End, has been drumming since he was three years old, but has never had a professional lesson.

He said: "When I was little I kept tapping on everything. I think I've got some sort of problem!

"What I want to do is pick up on when people start singing and get the beat going so it spreads.

"And it's my job to get some energy going if the team aren't playing too well.

"It is a big responsibility, but I'm really looking forward to it.

"The drumming can hurt your hands.

"I've got scars from drumming against Liverpool – but nothing is going to stop me."

Bus station to move?

By TOM MOSELEY

Plans to move Blackburn bus station to the current markets site are back on the agenda.

The possibility of relocating the bus station to a new base off Penny Street was first put forward in 2004 by the previous Labour administration as part of a wish-list of ideas for the town centre.

And now, as the town centre's multi-million pound regeneration plans finally take shape, the Conservative-led coalition that now runs the borough has re-launched these plans.

The market hall, Ainsworth Street, will be demolished once the development of the shopping centre at Lord Square is complete. The council has reserved the ground floor of the £66million centre, which is set to be built in summer 2010, for a new "continental-style" market.

CHANGE?: Buses on The Boulevard

Meanwhile, the bus station will need to move from its current base at the Boulevard when the council's own multi-million pound project, the £70million Cathedral Quarter, gets underway.

Conservative Coun Alan Cottam, executive member for regeneration, said: "We want to put the bus station in the middle of where the market area is now. There will be an interchange at the railway station and then bus stops on the way to Penny Street."

The rest of the site is expected to be turned into a combination of retail and office space.

Coun Cottam added: "The extent of the development has not been determined yet.

"We have had a few expressions of interest."

Chris Appleby, chairman of Blackburn Market Traders' Association, said: "It would be a convenient place for a bus station as far as we're concerned, but it's 18 months away and we've heard all kinds of talk about what's happening."

No planning application has yet been submitted for the Cathedral Quarter.

Bosses insist the project will go ahead, despite being first put forward five years ago.

The proposal includes two major hotels, apartments, shops, cafes, and a health club.

Naseem on Muslim Woman Power list

An East Lancashire woman has been named on a nationwide Muslim woman power list.

Naseem Malik, an IPCC Commissioner and judge of the Asylum and Immigration Tribunal, was named on the Muslim Woman Power list, which was revealed at The Lowry Hotel in Manchester.

Following her selection Naseem, who is also vice-chair of the East Lancashire Primary Care Trust, said: "It is a privilege and an honour to be included on the list."

Naseem said she was humbled that her career achievements had been recognised.

"It takes a lot of hard work and determination to succeed in your chosen career and I hope the list inspires other women to achieve their goals."

£25k makeover for playground

By CATHERINE PYE

Tockholes children are to benefit from a £25,000 makeover of the village's playground.

Blackburn with Darwen Council has announced the spending which will improve the existing facilities next to the Rock Inn pub.

Tockholes Parish Council has been pushing for the work for four years, after Lottery funding was granted for two pieces of equipment.

Geraldine Foster, parish council clerk, said: "We have slides and a see-saw at the moment, but equipment for younger children is not there.

"We also feel that any equipment we get should be up-to-date and exciting for the children, and have to check with them exactly what they want. It's not only village children who go on the playground either.

"Customers visiting the pub also have children who play there. Ideally we will get everything sorted out by summer. Play equipment is very expensive, so we think we can get about four pieces."

Coun Michael Law-Riding, play champion for the borough, said: "Our aim is to improve the quality and play value of play spaces across Blackburn and Darwen.

"We are delighted to allocate £25,000 to improve the existing facilities at Tockholes and we will be working closely with the parish council and residents, including children, to make sure we get it right for them.

"As well as upgrading some of the existing equipment, we want to increase natural play, in keeping with local and national trends. As soon as the consultation process has been completed work will commence."

Yobs ban back after petition

By DAVID WATKINSON

A dispersal zone banning youths congregating in a town centre has been re-introduced.

Since the last order expired, some residents and councillors in Oswaldtwistle had complained that problems with anti-social behaviour had begun to spiral out of control again.

Now, after an agreement between Hyndburn Council and local police, officers in the area will once again be able to move on troublemakers in the Union Road area.

Local councillor Doug Hayes had collected more than 500 signatures on a petition handed in to Hyndburn Council calling for the dispersal zone, which banned groups of youngsters from gathering on the streets, to be reinstated.

He said crowds of up to 70 youths were causing terror on the streets and incidents of abuse, anti-social behaviour and vandalism had been reported to police in Oswaldtwistle by concerned residents.

A previous dispersal order covered the Union Road area and came into force in March 2007, ending in October last year.

Coun Hayes said: "The police are on call practically every night and things have been steadily getting worse since last year when the dispersal order expired.

"Shoppers are being jostled, spat upon and harassed. Fights and obstruction are a regular occurrence.

"They are making the town centre a no-go area."

Council leader, Peter Britcliffe, said: "The dispersal order is one of a number of measures that we're taking to help people feel safe. The police do a great job in this area and this will be another tool they can use as, and when, they feel it is needed."

Inspector Chris Saville said: "Ordinary people who are going about their business will not be affected, but we will not tolerate any kind of yobbish behaviour."

AT SPECSAVERS WE DON'T JUST TREAT HALF YOUR HEARING PROBLEM.

Hardly anybody loses their hearing in just one ear. So wearing one hearing aid can cause as many problems as it solves. In particular, it's hard to distinguish the sounds you want to hear from background noise, making speech hard to follow. However, the price of hearing aids has always made buying two prohibitively expensive.

Now, at Specsavers, we've changed all that. We offer two digital hearing aids for the price of one, from just £495. What's more, our hearing aids are made by world-leading manufacturers, and feature the latest digital technology.

At a Specsavers Hearing Centre, you'll only ever be seen by a professional Hearing Aid Audiologist. We offer a full two-year guarantee on all our digital hearing aids, and they come with free batteries for the first 12 months too.

Crunch: but crime falls

By SALLY HENFIELD

Experts who predicted a rise in crime because of the credit crunch have been proved wrong after overall levels continued to drop.

In the latest figures, Lancashire has seen overall crime fall by 4.2per cent.

Police had anticipated an increase in 'inquisitive crime', theft for personal gain, with people resorting to stealing in order to counter the effects of the recession.

But the only crime category that has seen a rise in reported incidents is burglary, rising by 2.3per cent.

Crimes such as shoplifting, robbery and motor vehicle offences are all down.

Speaking at a Lancashire Police Authority meeting, Chief Constable Steve Finnigan said: "We had expected the credit crunch to have an effect on crime and we have tried to predict what might happen.

"Intelligence suggested in times of recession acquisition crime tends to go up.

"In 1990 to 1992, when there was also an economic crisis, we did see this happen and it peaked a couple of years after.

"We are not seeing a lot of that at the moment. The only indication is around burglary."

Mr Finnigan said an expected rise in credit card fraud, as people struggled to make ends meet, had not yet happened. Neither had an increase in domestic violence, despite more offenders expected to lash out as the credit crunch heightens tensions at home.

However, it was pointed out that women on average do not report domestic violence to the police until they have suffered 35 attacks – so more reports could be made in the future.

Jobs hope for over-50s

WORK SKILLS: Over-50s will be encouraged to use the skills they have got in a different way

Four East Lancashire colleges are joining forces to help older workers back into employment.

They have been handed £600,000 of European cash for the project.

It will see academics explore how to keep people aged over 50 in employment through re-training and other practical ideas.

One area being looked at is helping older people find jobs in the hospitality industry.

Then pilot courses will be run to address any skill shortages, or opportunities found. If successful, the work could be extended to other areas.

The Lancashire Colleges Consortium, which includes Accrington and Rossendale College, Blackburn College, Burnley College, and Nelson and Colne College, is leading the scheme.

Chief executive of the consortium Jon Piggott said they would be working alongside the TUC, the Campaign for Learning, Manchester Metropolitan University, and others.

Mr Piggott said: "There are different things we want to do. We are looking to increase employment, which might include more training.

"We don't encourage people to write themselves off, but use the skills they have got in a different way.

"When we have worked out what works, and what doesn't, and compare this to others, we will make a recommendation.

"This may be piloted and, if successful, it may be introduced in the mainstream."

The funding is part of a wider £22million grant from the European Social Fund which has been earmarked to find ways to increase employment opportunities and develop people's work skills.

Nice not to be wishy washy

What's Kim been up to since she left the show in 2007?
She has been in Rwanda doing her voluntary work. The fact she went there and couldn't change things enough for her liking didn't make her very happy, so she comes back.

Is she a fun character to play?
Oh she's great, because she's so outspoken and she's got such massive views on issues. It's nice to kind of not be wishy washy.

The young actors in the show are great. Did it remind you of your early days as a child actor?
It really did actually. Being in Corrie, it was a very different era when I started acting. There weren't magazine shoots to do. You just went in and did your work.

Were you a model pupil at school, or a bit of a tearaway?
I was a bit of a smart Alec. Only because I really loved school and I really loved learning.

Which teacher inspired you most, and why?
There was a science and maths teacher called Mr Elsdon, when I was 13. He really engaged the classrooms, and was really strict, but you just knew where you stood and that's something I've always really liked. Knowing where I stand.

FIVE MINUTES WITH ... Angela Griffin

You've successfully managed to avoid typecasting. Is that part of a plan, or just a happy accident?
It's just a happy accident. I'd love to say I planned my career, but I haven't (laughs).

Angela Griffin lives in Hertfordshire with her husband, Jason, and their children. She rose to fame as Fiona Middleton in Coronation Street, and has also appeared in Holby City and Cutting It. She plays Kim Campbell in Waterloo Road, which can be seen on BBC One. Her new series, Boy Meets Girl, can be seen later this year.

Green damp proofing without the mess of replastering

WITH spring in the air, now is the perfect time to get your home in order.

Investing in your property is the obvious choice as people opt to improve instead of move.

And while everyone knows the benefits of damp proofing, people tend to worry about the mess of replastering that usually comes with a new damp proofing course.

This is where Holland Damp Proofing comes in. For almost eight years the eco-friendly company has used a Dutch system, which provides damp proofing from the outside without the mess of replastering.

The Holland Damp Proof System® can be installed in an average house within one or two days at a price that is often lower than a chemical damp proof course.

From as little as £1,300 a mid terraced house can be damp proofed for life. The treatment is a worthwhile investment for any householder, as unlike many other systems it will not need doing again and saves on the cost of redecorating and replastering. The system can be used for problems such as rising damp, condensation, penetrating damp and mould, and is environmentally friendly.

It can be used on most types of walls and the product is used by big housing associations and councils. The system is also accepted by mortgage companies and building societies.

It works through the use of damp-regulating bricks, which are fitted, into specially prepared niches in the outside walls. Outside air is allowed to flow into the air chambers of the system and out again. On its way through the inside of the wall, this airflow causes moisture to evaporate, therefore drying out the entire wall.

Evert de Graaf, damp proofing expert, said: "It's completely different from UK methods because we do not contain damp using chemical injections and waterproof coatings. We remove it."

The reaction of customers is impressive. Marilyn Channing, from the North West, had the system installed. She said: "With the Holland System there was a noticeable difference within weeks. My husband Jon and I are property developers and they have treated five properties for us now. It is an amazing system. The beauty of it is it starts working very quickly and the damp does not return."

Marita Grace also used the system. She said: "I called for quotes and found that the chemical injection method was expensive and the results couldn't be guaranteed. The Holland Damp Proof System® was absolutely superb. There was no mess or fuss. It has been two years now, and I have no sign of damp. Plus the system has a lifetime guarantee."

For added peace of mind Holland Damp Proofing is a member of the Guild of Master Craftsmen. The rapidly expanding company, which regularly wins awards for its success and innovation, now has four branches covering the whole of the UK.

- For more details contact Holland Damp Proofing on freephone 0808 155 2571 or visit www.dampproofing.com

DAMP SOLUTION: Evert de Graaf demonstrates where the bricks are inserted to clear dampness and (right) a diagram of how the system works.

Stage set for Blues

INTERNATIONAL blues musicians Earl Thomas, Rod Piazza, the Mighty Flyers, Magic Slim and the Blues Imperials will star in this year's Burnley International Blues Festival.

In what organisers are calling the best line-up yet, the 21st annual festival will also see Lil Ed, The Teardrops, Kenny Neal, and Doug MacLeod take to the stage.

For blues fans Easter time in the north of England has come to mean only one thing – Burnley Blues Festival.

Running over the long weekend, from April 10 to 12, the festival has, over the years, already attracted just about every top name in the world of blues. So what is the secret to the longevity of this prestigious event?

Festival organiser Barbara Hood said: "We believe each festival should provide a balanced variety of established artists, new performers and festival favourites.

STAR: Earl Thomas is in the line-up

By CAROLINE DUTTON

"Burnley remains true to the original format of traditional blues, as there is a historic interest in the more mature American artist.

"It is unfortunate that, in some areas, blues music is associated with the older generation because it's plain to see that new artists, such as Seasick Steve, Joe Bonamassa and the Black Keys can capture the younger generation with what they perceive to be a whole new sound.

"Blues music is evolving. I urge people not familiar with them to Google the artists, listen to their music and experience the festival. They won't be disappointed."

Other artists appearing include Lightnin' Willie and the Poorboys, Paddy Milner, Hamilton Loomis, Ricky Cool and the Hoola Boola Boys, The Cadillac Kings, The Two Timers, Flanagan, Oli Brown, Chantel McGregor, Eddie Martin, Mike Whellans, Back Porch Band, Bill Daison Band, Jay Tamkin, Roadhouse, Graham Robinson, Pete Mitchells Drive and many more.

Cinema round-up

DUPLICITY (12A) We're compelled to take sides in this comic caper as the battle of the sexes escalates into all-out war.

LESBIAN VAMPIRE KILLERS (15) A juvenile horror spoof. Clumsy, dull, and almost completely starved of laughs.

TRAITOR (12A) Exploiting the disparity between fact and illusion, Traitor is a taut thriller of political intrigue and espionage.
